RAPID WORK AT MANEUVER CAMP

Final Arrangements at Maneuver Camp being Hurried Along. Light Facilities. Water Tank and Mains.

The site for the camp of the Regulars and National Guards of the Middle Atlantic States is gradually taking on the appearance of a small city and preparations are being rushed to receive the troops which will arrive on Thursday of next week for the opening of the camp on the following day. The Regulars will be in camp the entire time. The Maryland and Virginia militia detachments will be here for the first period, July 1 to 9.

The huge water tank on the crest of the hill has been erected and stands out in bold relief against the sky line. The water mains are being laid all through the camp from this tank, the water from the town mains being pumped into the big reservoir on the pumping station near Rock Creek.

The large freight receiving station is one of the busiest scenes of activity. The station itself is built as though it were meant to see many years' service. Supplies are coming in by the carload. A carload of baled hay has been unloaded, a carload of cuts is here, a carload of medical and surgical supplies is also ready for use. This will be one of the principal scenes of activity during the camp in July.

The electric light wires have been strung to the camp and poles placed along the principal streets. Six large arcs have been put in position at the freight station so that work can go along there at night with little difficulty.

The sanitary arrangements about the camp will be as nearly perfect as possible. Note was made in these columns recently of the fact that an inquiry was made to ascertain whether or not the place would be healthful for the troops and a favorable answer was, of course, given. The garbage and other refuse of the camp will be disposed of at the many incineration plants which have been erected and in fact from that source will be next to impossible. Scores of garbage cans have been received for use at the camp and will be placed at convenient places for the dumping of refuse which will then be taken to one or other of the incineration plants for disposal.

Numerous bath houses have been placed in the camp and long lines of showers have been arranged for the troops. The water main connections are at convenient places and the soldiers will have no trouble securing water for any purpose whenever it is wanted.

Tables and benches are being placed through the camp and other arrangements completed for the reception of the troops next week. Some of the Signal Corps paraphernalia is already here ready for use.

150 YEARS OLD

Interesting and appropriate services were held Sunday at St. Benjamin's Lutheran Church, of Salem charge, near Westminster in commemoration of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the congregation.

The site of the church and the church cemetery, with an outlet to the main highway between Westminster and Gettysburg, was donated by a man named Grider, a name which subsequently became corrupted to Kriders, and both congregations are still sometimes called Kriders. They still jointly own this site, which is on a commanding eminence, overlooking a wide and beautiful landscape.

About 15 years ago each of these congregations purchased ground adjoining the original Grider gift and erected its own place of worship. Additions have also been made to the cemetery, which is one of the most beautiful in Carroll county.

ELECTRICITY DOES DAMAGE

Severe Electrical Storm of Monday Afternoon Sees Buildings and Trees Struck. Many People slightly Stunned.

On Monday afternoon in the most severe electrical storm which has visited this immediate vicinity this summer two stables were burned, trees were badly damaged, the Gettysburg Steam Laundry was struck and much other damage done.

The storm broke between one and two o'clock and was accompanied for almost an hour by brilliant flashes of lightning followed quickly by heavy peals of thunder. Pain fell in torrents for many minutes and the streets were flooded, while nearby streams showed the great amount of rainfall.

One bolt of lightning, during the latter part of the storm, struck the stable of George Lady in the rear of Steinwehr avenue and it was soon destroyed by fire together with that of Washington Harner adjoining. The Harner stable was a new one. The contents were saved by early arrivals on the scene. The Fire Department responded as soon as an alarm was turned in and did good service in saving other buildings.

A number of people were slightly stunned by the electricity. A woman, whose name has not been learned, was shocked at the Reading station shortly before the three o'clock train left but a friend attended to her and she was able to leave on the train. Several men working on the avenues were also stunned while the Western Maryland repair gang had quite a shock when the barn of Jere Harzell was struck. The bolt struck the lightning rod and did no damage but the railroaders had taken refuge from the storm under the overhauled and had quite an unpleasant sensation when the rod was struck.

The chimney on the house of George Stallsmith on East Middle street was struck and badly damaged but no harm was done to the house.

The Gettysburg Steam Laundry was struck but fortunately none of the machinery was in motion at the time and the operators were not hurt. The lightning played about the machinery for several seconds. No damage was done.

Every telephone on Baltimore street and Steinwehr avenue was put out of commission by the storm. The large wild cherry tree near the monument of the Stannard Brigade was practically torn to pieces by a bolt of lightning. Many people were alarmed by the electricity which entered their homes by means of the telephones but no damage was done except at the home of William Black not far from town where things were thrown around a bit.

The storm was very local, passing over a path only about twelve miles in width.

HILL-SNAVELY

A pretty wedding was solemnized Monday evening at 6 o'clock at the home of Alfred Snavely, in Harrisburg, when his daughter, Miss E. Gertrude Snavely, was married to George W. Hill, Jr., teacher of mathematics at Technical high school and well known here. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Hefelbower.

The bride was gowning in a dainty white frock and carrying a shower of bride roses and lilies of the valley, was attended by her sister, Miss Martha Snavely, who also wore white and carried pink roses. Miss Miriam Frazer played the wedding march. Following the ceremony a reception was held and a wedding supper served. Mr. and Mrs. Hill left on an extended tour and will be at home in Harrisburg after September 1st.

PAY ENUMERATORS

The census enumerators in York, Hanover and Gettysburg, have been paid for their work. They received their pay a few days ago, direct from the treasury department in Washington. The enumerators in the boroughs and townships have not yet received their pay, as their work was completed later than the enumeration in York, Hanover and Gettysburg. Lewis C. Elliott, census supervisor of York and Adams counties, continues engaged in the work of checking off the census data. Only a comparatively small amount of the work yet remains to be completed.

WHO wants them? A bunch of fine sheep to put out on shares. Apply Times office.

ARRESTED BY STATE POLICE

The two members of the State Constabulary who have been stationed in Carlisle are aiding very materially in the ferreting out of criminals for whom the authorities have been on the hunt for several weeks. The new men are very efficient in this manner, and have landed some bad men.

The latest arrest made by these officials was the arrest on Saturday by Officer Smith of Scott Miller, a resident of Boiling Springs, who is charged with arson. Miller was taken to Carlisle and Justice John B. Martin committed the prisoner to jail for a hearing this week.

Miller has credited to him the burning of the barn owned by the Deer Park Land Company, located in Monroe township, Cumberland county, and which was valued at over $1,000. The barn was destroyed by fire on the night of April 3, 1910.

ACID IN FACE

Theodore Robinson, who is employed by the Battlefield Commission, was injured about the face Monday by an acid solution used to destroy weeds, while working on the avenue. Mr. Robinson was unloading a keg of "weed killer." When the vessel slipped the bung was knocked out and a portion of the solution was splashed over his face. The injured man received medical attention and was able to return to work later in the day.

TRAVELING LIBRARY

Fairfield, June 21—Through the efforts of Prof. C. A. Landis a traveling library has been secured for this vicinity. All those wishing books are requested to meet at the public school house Thursday evening of this week at 8 o'clock. The invitation is extended to the people of the neighboring townships as well as the townfolk.

FUNERAL NOTICE

The body of Charles Lentz, who was drowned in Iowa on Sunday is expected here Wednesday over the Western Maryland. If it arrives at 10.08 or 1.10 the funeral will be held from the Lentz home on Stratton street Wednesday afternoon, Rev. L. Dowett, officiating. Interment in Evergreen cemetery.

YORK COUNTY HAS BIG FIRE

Late Night Fire Threatens to Destroy York County Town. Assistance from Other Towns Saves Many Buildings.

Fire, which originated from a cause unknown, Monday night at 10.30 o'clock, destroyed the felt mill of the plant of the National Roofing Material Co., located at Cly, York county, and for a time threatened to wipe out the little village. The approximate damage is estimated at $40,000 which is partly covered by insurance. Only the heroic efforts of a band of fire fighters from Goldsboro, York Haven and surrounding territory saved the entire plant from destruction and prevented the flames from spreading to the houses nearby.

It is believed that the blaze started in the heater room and, it is said, had gotten a good start before discovered. The flames spread rapidly and their reflection on the sky could be seen for many miles. Residents from Goldsboro, York Haven and other towns hurried to the scene and fought strenuously to prevent the flames spreading to the tar plant which is in close proximity to the felt mill. At midnight the flames were under control. A house owned by Mrs. H. F. Willis, of York, and occupied by Daniel Hollerbusch was threatened for a time with destruction.

The building destroyed is a frame structure several hundred feet in length and covered with corrugated iron. It contained considerable raw material and valuable machinery.

The plant at Cly was purchased by the present owners about one year ago at a bankrupt sale.

BARLOW

Barlow, June 21—Harvest is now rapidly approaching. The grain fields are becoming more golden every day. Soon the farmers will be seen in the fields with the binder.

Clare Winebrenner, of Gettysburg, is spending some time with J. Carra Smith and family.

Many people of our community attended Children's Day services at Two Taverns on Sunday evening.

Children's Day services will be held at Mt. Joy next Sunday at 10.00 a. m.; Sunday School at 9.00; Christian Endeavor at 7.45 p. m. Practicing for Children's Day on Wednesday evening. If it is rainy on Wednesday evening, practicing on Friday evening.

INJURY BY APPLE RUST

From Adams County went to State Zoologist Surface, Harrisburg, some green apples and leaves, covered with rust, and information was wanted as to what can be done to prevent the rust spreading.

Professor Surface replied as follows: "The diseased fruit and leaf of apple which you sent to us, show injury by the Apple Rust. It is now too late to cure those which are damaged, but we can prevent the spread of this disease by spraying with Bordeaux mixture. Use three pounds of bluestone and four of lime in fifty gallons of water. The germs of this disease live part of the year on red cedar trees, and, therefore, the destruction of the red cedar trees near the orchard is one of the means of getting rid of the rust. One of its necessary forms of existence is in the red cedar 'apple,' as it is called, which is the black knot often to be seen on the branches of this tree. If there were no red cedar trees for carrying the disease through this necessary stage, there would be no disease of this kind."

TO GIVE MONEY PRIZES

The Gettysburg Driving Club at a regular meeting Monday night decided on giving a regular race meet at their grounds on Springs avenue on Saturday, July 16th. A purse of $100.00 will be given for horses eligible to the 2.30 class, trotters and pacers; a purse of $50.00 for horses eligible to the 2.40 class trotters; and a prize of a fine set of road harness for a free for all. Horses are to be owned in Adams county and driven by their owners. The complete program for the best harness meet ever held in Adams county since horse races were held for money purses, will be held on the date selected and by the interest already shown by our horsemen at home it should be a great success.

OLD STORE PASSES

The purchase of the stock of the Einstein Dry Goods Company in Harrisburg by Bowman and Co., marks the passing out of existence of one of the oldest and best known business houses in this section.

The purchase involves the entire stock of high grade merchandise usually handled at this store, the value of which is estimated at $75,000, in addition to fixtures.

The work of transferring the goods to the Bowman and Co. store was begun promptly upon the completion of negotiations, and it will probably require a week or ten days for the removal and rearrangement of the entire stock before it can be placed on sale.

Mr. Kauffman received a two thirds value of every animal slaughtered, the highest figure being $26.66. One bull is all that remains out of Mr. Kauffman's original herd.

ONE KILLED, SEVEN HURT IN JOY RIDE

Boy Showed Skill as Chauffeur With Fatal Result.

Huntington, W. Va., June 21.—Cleo Shafer, aged fourteen years, is dead and seven young people are injured, one of them probably fatally, as a result of an automobile accident on a road near Warren in the southern part of this county.

Taking a party of seven, the oldest a girl of seventeen, Russell Gray, aged twelve years, started out for a ride in a five passenger touring car. The automobile careened to one side of the road, throwing the Shafer girl out on her head and shoulders, instantly killing her. It then turned to the other side of the road and upset, pinning several of the occupants beneath the wreckage. It is said that the Gray boy was trying to "show off" his supposed skill as a chauffeur before several friends by making the car wobble from one side of the road to the other before the accident occurred.

RISKS LIFE TO EVADE BEES

Tender, Unable to Swim, Jumps Into River When Stung.

York, Pa., June 21.—Walter Dasher, of Wrightsville, risked his life to escape punishment from a swarm of bees. He had undertaken to live the bees, but they alighted on his head and began to sting him in dozens of places.

Unable to chase them off, the young man became desperate and, hurrying to the river, he jumped in. This drove off the bees, but Dasher was unable to swim and would have drowned had not employees of a nearby plant rescued him.

MAY ADJOURN THIS WEEK

Determined to Make Bill Part of the Legislative Program For This Session—Sees Senate Leaders.

Washington, June 21.—Encouraged by the success that has attended his legislative program up to this time, President Taft decided to make an issue of the passage at this present session of congress of the bill providing for the publicity of campaign contributions in all campaigns affecting federal officers.

Mr. Taft sent for party leaders in both the house and senate, and told them his views on this subject. Mr. Taft said that he had made a personal pledge in his campaign for the presidency to do what he could toward furthering the enactment of a publicity bill. The president had hesitated to add this bill to his program while congress was devoting itself to those measures to which the party had definitely committed itself in its platform.

Now that the program is practically completed, he has decided to bring all of his influence to bear in behalf of the publicity bill. He took Senator Burrows, of Michigan, for a long automobile ride. Mr. Burrows is chairman of the senate committee on elections. When he and the president parted it was with the understanding that the campaign publicity bill soon would be called up.

The president obtained the consent of Senator Brandegee temporarily to lay the Appalachian forest reserve bill aside that the publicity bill might have right of way as the unfinished business in the senate following the final disposition of the postal savings bank bill. The president does not expect any serious trouble in getting the bill through the house.

Congress to Quit This Week.

The opening of what is expected to be the last week of the congressional session found the president in rare good spirits. The home-coming of Colonel Roosevelt and the cordial exchange of personal messages between him and President Taft lent an added interest to White House events.

Mr. Taft feels that he has accomplished all that he set out to do at the present session of congress, and the fact that the publicity bill probably will be added to the achievements seems especially to please him. Despite the criticisms that have been heaped upon him, Mr. Taft believes he has given his party a good record. And when it comes to the campaign this fall, the president, in whatever he has to say, will not attempt to ignore the new tariff law, but will defend it again.

Senators and representatives at the White House were inclined to the view that congress may adjourn some time between Thursday and Saturday of this week. The president will not be disappointed if the session continues until the 30th.

He will remain in Washington for three or four days following adjournment to clear up a lot of things that are pending and to talk with the leaders. It is probable the president will not begin his vacation until July 4, when he is due for a speech at Boston.

Fine For Smuggling.

Trenton, N. J., June 21.—Ferdinand Buntie, of Chicago, was fined $200 by Judge Reilstab in the United States district court. Buntie, who is a veteran of the Civil War and engaged in the confectionery business in Chicago, was charged with smuggling several watches, cigarholders and jewelry that he had purchased for presents to his friends. The goods had not been declared and when found Buntie was arrested and later entered a plea of guilty.

President Signs Statehood Bill.

New York, June 21.—The president signed the statehood bill. The bill was signed in the senate shortly after noon by the vice president and sent to the White House. Two pens were used by the president, a gold one furnished by Postmaster General Hitchcock, and an eagle feather, brought by Delegate Andrews.

Fumes Killed C. C. Dickinson.

New York, June 21.—A coroner's jury decided that the inhalation of "irritant fumes" had been the cause of the death of Charles Courter Dickinson, former president of the Carnegie Trust company, who died on May 24, eight days after he was brought here from the laboratory of Dr. Lange, in Scranton, Pa., where he witnessed an experiment during which there was an explosion. Mr. Dickinson carried a $55,000 accident insurance policy. Whether the policy will be paid following the contradictory opinion rendered may be determined by the courts.

POACHERS KIDNAP WARDEN

Fishing Tug Seized, But Breaks Away With Official on Board.

Lansing, Mich., June 21.—It is reported here that Deputy Michigan Game Warden C. E. Pettit has been forcibly carried away on an unknown Wisconsin fishing tug near Green Bay. The tug had been seized by the warden and was being towed by the steamer Chase S. Osborn, when she broke away and escaped.

News of the deputy game warden's plight came to State Warden Pierce in a telegram from Nenominee, Mich. The Michigan fish warden's tug, Chase S. Osborn, was patrolling the Michigan waters of Green Bay when the Wisconsin tug was sighted. On the Osborn were C. E. Pettit and J. B. Eddy, deputy game wardens. Their decision was that the Badger State craft was poaching and was taken in tow. Deputy Pettit was left aboard the craft as prize officer.

Suddenly the crew of the captive boat cut the tow line and the Osborn was distanced in a stern chase. The last seen of the Michigan warden he was running around the deck of the disappearing boat with a husky Wisconsin sailor in close pursuit.

THORNTON COOK NAMED

Taft Offers Kansas City Man Directorship of Mint.

Kansas City, June 21.—It was announced that Thornton Cooke, of the Fidelity Trust company, of Kansas City, had been offered the position of director of the mint by President Taft. Mr. Cooke tacitly admitted that the place had been offered him, but would not say whether he would accept it.

CHICKENS KILLED BY HAILSTONES

Great Damage Done by Storm in Indiana.

Petersburg, Ind., June 21.—This section of southern Indiana was visited by the worst hailstorm in its history, the hail following a cloudburst which destroyed many fields of growing grain.

Practically every window in the town of Algiers was destroyed. Live stock was wounded, but no fatalities have been reported. Many shingle-roofed dwellings will have to be covered again. Hailstones, which by actual measurement were five inches in circumference, fell and hundreds of chickens were killed. Growing wheat and corn were beaten to the ground and the blades shredded. The wheat and oats crops are practically ruined. The damage is estimated at $100,000.

Fifty-Pound Hailstones.

York, Pa., June 21.—All the stories about hailstones falling from the clouds as big as hen's eggs was eclipsed here by William Diefenheffer, who lives in West Baptist avenue. He says that a hailstone composed of a lot of smaller ones during the storm of Saturday night fell in his back yard weighing fifty pounds or more. It was 36 inches long and 14 inches wide. At the time he called in several of the neighbors, who vouch for his statement. Some do not credit this story, and think that a quantity of hail was swept together and frozen.

SULTAN'S PEARLS FOR SALE

Monarch Would Like to Raise $250,000 to Help Uplift His People.

Manila, P. I., June 21.—The sultan of Sulu, Hadji Mohammed Jamabul Kiram, who once offered his hand in marriage to Miss Alice Roosevelt, is to visit America.

He announces that the chief object of his trip abroad is to dispose of a collection of pearls valued at some thing like $250,000, the proceeds from which will be devoted to improving the condition of his people. He will be accompanied by fourteen prominent Moros. He already has sailed for India and will make stops at several European cities.

How the Train Was Held Up

By BEVERLY WORTHINGTON

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

All day we sped on, getting farther and farther from civilization. What had been three carloads at the start was soon reduced to one, and finally all save about a dozen passengers had dropped off. The country becoming arid, nothing to look at outside and nothing to do inside, some of us got together to talk. There was a Methodist minister in a white cravat and a woman dressed in calico, an Irishman with a red head and a colored man. Others there were, but these four were especially impressed on my memory. We had exhausted every topic we could think of and were planning for something to break the monotony of the journey when the conductor came in and said to us:

"We're coming to a place, a cut and a curve in the road, where there is a possibility of the train being held up. If you people have any valuables that you don't care to lose you had better dispose of them in some way by which they won't show up."

"How do you know the train is likely to be held up?" asked the Irishman.

"A man got on at the last station who said that his little daughter, only twelve years old, had heard some men laying a plan. They had agreed that they would go through this very train and at the cut two miles beyond Racoon. There's only one cut about there, and there's a curve in it."

"Why don't you go back?" asked the woman, trembling.

"Because there's no certainty about the matter. I don't know how well I can depend on the information. If I backed at every such report, throwing the road's schedule out, I'd soon get my walking papers."

"Where's the man who told about this?"

"In the baggage car."

One or two of the passengers went forward to interview the informer, while the others began to take measures to put their valuables in places where they would not likely be found. We had left Racoon and would be in the cut in a few minutes. The woman unhooked her dress in front and crammed in a pocketbook. The Irishman, thinking that she would not be likely to be forced to disrobe, asked her if she would kindly take charge of a roll of bills for him. She consented. No one of the other passengers—they were all men—seemed to be satisfied to keep his valuables on his person, so one by one they went to the woman and asked her to be their temporary safe depository. She was very obliging, but not having room where she had put her own pocketbook, she suggested that they tie up their goods in their handkerchiefs and she would pin them on to the waistband of her petticoat.

This seemed so admirable a plan that every man in the car came to this lone woman and begged the protection of her skirts for his money, watch and jewelry of every kind. She was literally loaded down with them, having a circle of suspended articles around her waist.

The news that the train was likely to be held up was carried into the next car back—there were but two passenger cars—and half a dozen persons came into our car to learn about the matter. There was no more room for valuables under the woman's skirt, but the minister stepped forward with a plan, much to the relief of these newcomers. Taking off his silk hat, he said:

"I am carrying funds for the church, and, knowing of the danger of being robbed in this wild country, I had a false top put in my hat. I have room for what money any of you may wish to secrete."

He took out the false top and put it back again on all the money there was left unprovided for.

But there was no room in the clergyman's hat except for money. The colored man opened a worn suit case that looked as if it would scarcely hold together to complete the journey and among the contents, some soiled underclothes, hid a fifty cent piece and two nickels, all the money he had. This seemed to those passengers whose watches and jewelry had not been taken care of the acme of fine hiding places. No robber would expect to find anything in that suit case among a negro's soiled underclothes. Consequently the goods that had not yet been hidden were dumped into the tattered receptacle.

By the time the last article had been stored away the train reached the cut. The passengers held their breath while passing through it and breathed again on reaching the other end. When they were congratulating themselves on getting through safely there was a jerk on the bell rope, and the train suddenly came to a stop.

The passengers turned pale and kept their seats except the clergyman, the woman and the negro. They went to the door, apparently to see what had happened. But they did not stop there. Four horses stood saddled beside the track. The three passengers mentioned, the negro holding on to his suit case, jumped from the car and on to the horses. The fourth horse was mounted by the informer. Waving an affectionate adieu, they put spurs to their horses and were soon lost to view in a wood.

"By thunder," exclaimed the conductor, "that's the nearest job I ever dreamed of!"

Among all the passengers on the train there was not enough money left to buy a breakfast.

Free Remedy For Weak Bowels

There are two forms of bodily cleanliness, the external and the internal. The one is for your pride and yourself; the other for your life and health. Both are important, but of vastly more importance in the long run is the internal cleanliness.

This is one point that all should watch about their body—the cleanliness of the bowels. Keep them clean and free from obstructions. To do this you must have one or two movements of the bowels each twenty-four hours. If your system does not do this naturally, in the process of eating and drinking, then you must obtain aid of some kind. After dining relieve you for a day, but blind you up worse than ever the next day, then try a purger that is brief, natural, and easy to use. You can get a free sample bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

For the absolute best way to be clean is to send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell for a free sample bottle. Use it as directed and if it convinces you that a brief continuance of its use will relieve you permanently—that it will train the stomach and bowel muscles to work naturally, then buy a bottle of it or then buy it of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing. They began with a sample bottle, then bought a fifty cent bottle, and now, fully convinced of its merits, they buy the one dollar family size. All the members of the family can use it down to the very youngest.

A brief use of this grand laxative tonic will cure constipation in its worst form, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such ailments and keep you in continuous good health at a very small cost. Such is the experience of many families like that of Mrs. Oscar Fleener, Unionville, Ind. J. F. Daniel, Saron, Tex., and hundreds of others that could be named.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a post card or otherwise. For further request the doctor's address is Dr. J. C. Caldwell, R. 521 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

ed box with a perforated wooden float almost as large as the inside dimensions of the box, which in use is set in a super. For convenience in handling the feeder should be about two inches shorter in front, one-half inch at the back and three-quarters inch at each side than the super's inside measurements, and the front should be partly cut away, as shown. In use the super may be set below the brood chamber with, say, twenty or twenty-five pounds of sirup in the feeder. This amount will be taken up by a strong colony in about two days. It is essential that paraffin be used freely around the crack to prevent leaking. —American Agriculturist.

The new canes in the raspberry patch—those which will be bearing fruit next season—should be tipped when they are about three and a half feet high. This will result in a sturdy, well branched bush, to the maturing of which all the plant energy for the rest of the season will be devoted.

BIG CROWD SEES TEDDY, JR., WED

More Than 1500 Guests Were at the Church.

KERMIT WAS BEST MAN

The Marriage of Former President's Son and Miss Alexander Was Big Social Event—Plans For Honeymoon a Secret.

New York, June 21.—In the presence of more than 1500 invited guests, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., and Miss Eleanor B. Alexander were married in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, and as the wedding chimes pealed forth they notified a mob of nearly twice that number, who were crowded about the entrance of the church and occupying every other and nook of observation to see the bride and bridegroom.

Not since the wedding of Consuelo Vanderbilt and the Duke of Marlborough and Anna Gould and Count Boni de Castellane has New York seen such a crowd of the curious assembled to witness a church wedding. A detail of police had hard work to keep the crowd at proper distance, and some eager women attempted to force their way into the church.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and his wife were early in arriving, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth. The bride arrived before the crowd became too thick for comfort.

The fact that the eldest son of the only living ex-president of the United States, a scion of one of New York's oldest families, was to become a bridegroom was responsible for the general interest in the affair, while the social position of the bride-to-be's mother, Mrs. Henry Alexander, and the popularity of Miss Alexander herself, were responsible for the flutter in Fifth avenue.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Henry M. Sanders, a great uncle of the bride. He was assisted by Rev. Gordon Russell, of Cranford, N. J.

Kermit Was Best Man.

E. Du Pont Irving was not able to act as best man owing to the recent death of his father, A. Duer Irving, and his place was taken by Kermit Roosevelt. The ushers were Messrs. George Emlen Roosevelt, Monroe Douglas Robinson, Francis Roche, Hamilton Fish, Jr., Fulton Cutting, John W. Cutler, Grafton Chapman, Elliot Cutler and E. Morgan Gilbert.

Miss Alexander entered the church with her mother, by whom she was given away. The elder Mrs. Alexander wore a wonderful Duff Gordon gown—also what the fashionable modistes call a "portrait gown" (after the Reynolds, Le Brun, Gainsborough and other famous portrait painters' studies) of changeable rose and mauve silk. It was made with a high draped bodice, finished with lace and a silver fringed scarf falling over a sleeveless shoulder of Pompadour gold dotted chiffon.

Her attendants were Mrs. Snowden A. Fahnestock, who was her matron of honor, and Mr. Roosevelt's sister, Miss Ethel Roosevelt; the Misses Harriet and Janet Alexander, the bride's cousins; Miss Jessie Millington-Drake and Miss Jean Walters Delano acted as bridesmaids. Their gowns were charming and novel. White chiffon was used for them, and this was sent to Paris some time ago to be painted in a floral design, done in the softest of pastel colors.

After the reception Mr. Roosevelt and his bride started on a honeymoon, but they have not told where. Some of their friends think they have planned an automobile trip. They will arrive in San Francisco about July 1, and will go to housekeeping there, the young bridegroom having been chosen for manager of the Pacific coast branch of the carpet manufactory at Thompsonville, Conn., in which he went to work after he was graduated from Harvard. A collection of antique furniture Mrs. Alexander gathered in on its way to San Francisco.

The announcement last February of the engagement of Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., and Miss Alexander came as a surprise to even close friends of the two. He is twenty-two years old and she twenty-one.

Miss Alexander's wedding dress naturally was of white satin of the softest variety—not the old-fashioned kind brides once affected, but more like what the French now call "satin souple." The dress was simple and girlish and depended on its long graceful lines for much of its charm, although some wonderful old family point lace which her mother, Mrs. Henry Addison Alexander, treasures highly because of associations and traditions adorned it. The lace was used on the bodice and sleeves.

Following the fashion of English brides, Miss Alexander wore a tulle veil, which was fastened with the usual orange blossoms, but nothing stiff or conventional was attempted with the flowers—just a few sprays were used in the most artless and natural manner.

Many beautiful wedding gifts have been received, though nothing about them has been given out. The gift from the former president was said to be especially magnificent.

While dry seasons have their drawbacks, it is a matter of common observation that the quality of both small grain and corn crops is better during such seasons than during those in which there is an excess of rain.

That buttermilk can hardly be recommended as a healthful beverage which is got from creameries or private dairies in which the cream product is in part furnished by cows badly affected with tuberculosis. And what is true of the buttermilk holds true in even larger measure with the fresh milk from the same animals.

BIG MEAT COMBINE CHARGED WITH PLOT

Suit Started to Exclude Them From Missouri.

Jefferson City, Mo., June 21.—Attorney General Elliott E. Major began ouster proceedings against five meat packing companies by filing quo warranto information in the supreme court. The companies attacked are: Armour Packing company, Morris & Co., Swift & Co., Hammond Packing company and St. Louis Dressed Beef and Provision company.

The Armour, Swift and Morris companies are charged with violating the anti-trust law and conspiracy and the Hammond and St. Louis Dressed Beef and Provision companies, as subsidiary companies with conspiracy to control the business in Missouri.

The five companies are named in two petitions which ask that the corporations be excluded from all corporate rights, that their licenses be forfeited and that all or such portion of their property as the court may deem proper be confiscated or, in lieu thereof, a fine be imposed.

The Armour, Swift and Morris companies are charged with having entered into a conspiracy in 1909 to control the prices to be paid by dealers in live stock, poultry, butter, eggs, dairy and agricultural products, to control the prices to be paid by retail and wholesale dealers for dressed meats and to control the prices to be paid by all retail and wholesale dealers for butter, eggs, poultry, game, dairy and agricultural products and by-products from the business of slaughtering live stock.

ROOSEVELT PAYS DUTY

Former President Sent Check For $1000 to Collector Loeb.

New York, June 21.—All the baggage of the Roosevelt party has been sent to Oyster Bay.

Collector Loeb would not give out the amount of duty paid by Colonel Roosevelt on his personal belongings. According to one of the customs officials the amount was about $500. A check for $1000 was sent to the collector by a representative of the former president before Colonel Roosevelt arrived, with directions that the duties be paid from this sum.

Colonel Roosevelt insisted upon paying duties on all his dutiable belongings. He declined to take advantage of his privilege as special ambassador of the United States to represent the United States at King Edward's funeral, entitling him to free entry of his effects.

The customs laws do not apply to the specimens and trophies of Colonel Roosevelt's hunting trip, shipped to the Smithsonian institution at Washington.

House Votes For Peace.

Washington, June 21.—In the interest of universal peace the house passed the Bennett joint resolution authorizing the president to appoint a commission of five senators to consider the expediency of utilizing existing international agencies for the purpose of limiting the armaments of the nations by international agreement. The resolution suggests also that the commission consider a plan for constituting the combined navies of the world an international force for the preservation of peace.

WIFE AND BABE OF STUDENT MISSING

Police Ask Him to Explain Their Disappearance.

SAYS HE SENT THEM HOME

Winner of Fellowship at Millersville State Normal School Arrested by Lancaster Police on Suspicion of Double Murder.

Lanaster, Pa., June 21.—J. Cleveland Grice, twenty-two years old, of Sharpsburg, Md., an honor student in this year's graduating class of the Millersville State Normal school, was arrested at the Lancaster police station by Chief of Police Bushong and asked to explain the strange disappearance of his twenty-year-old alleged wife and their two-weeks-old baby.

This announcement has stirred not only the devout village of Millersville, but every section of Lancaster county as never before.

A year ago Grice, then just of age, is said to have married pretty Ellen Dorsey, aged nineteen, at the home of her widowed mother at Sharpsburg, Md. The following December the couple made their appearance here and took rooms at a prominent boarding house. Grice applied for entrance at the Millersville Normal school, and by reason of superior training entered the senior class. He applied himself to his studies and was to have been rewarded with honors at the graduation exercises.

Had Won a Scholarship.

While Grice lived with his wife here his marriage was not generally known and it was stated that he had represented himself as unmarried to the professors of the school. Some time ago the school authorities promised him a scholarship at the Johns Hopkins university provided he accomplished certain work, and this scholarship was earned.

While a model student, stories told by fellow boarders indicate that Grice was hardly a model husband. Of recent months, it is stated, quarrels were frequent, brought about, it is believed, by the advent of a child in the little family.

When the baby was born two weeks ago Grice had provided neither a nurse nor a doctor. Neighbors had to insist that both be procured and then finally a doctor was called in. Then Grice refused to get a nurse, but his neighbors again insisted, and he employed a woman whom he retained only a short time.

Drive Away in Storm at Night.

On Thursday night last, in one of the heaviest storms in years, Grice hired a team and, driving to the rear of their apartment house, put his wife, just out of bed, and baby, into the wagon and drove away. At midnight he returned alone.

He stated that he had taken his wife to a railway station to send her to her home. The last seen of the woman and baby was when they entered the carriage.

Grice's actions aroused suspicion and the police were notified. An investigation disclosed that the woman did not arrive at her home. The police found that no one answering her description got on the train, and no tickets were sold that night to Hagerstown or Antietam, the points from which she could reach her home.

Grice is reticent, and all the police can get out of him is that he put his wife and child on the train and sent them home.

The police claim they have some strong circumstantial evidence which they refuse to disclose at the present time.

MILLET AS A CATCH CROP.

Useful to Follow Another or Replace One That Has Been Destroyed.

When a catch crop becomes necessary one of the first that is thought of is millet. This crop does not have a high feeding value, as it is apparently too rich in oil. At the same time it is very useful to follow another crop or as a catch crop to replace one that has been destroyed. It matures quickly and, in combination with other feeds, has an undoubted value.

There are many varieties, and in general these varieties constitute one of the most important groups of food plants, as they are the staple diet of about one-third of the world's human population. In the old world they are grown as cereals, but in America almost entirely as forage. The true millet is sometimes called the broom corn millet. Another variety is the fox tail millet, and still others are the barnyard or Japanese, the African, the Chinese, the Indian and pearl or cat tail millet. The fox tail variety includes the German and Hungarian millets, which are most commonly grown in this state.

For several years past there seems to have been a considerable increase in interest in millet as a pasture crop in western Kansas. When sown for such a purpose about twice the usual amount of seed should be used. As it is a heavy feeder and draws upon the nitrogen element of the soil it is said to be hard on land. Those soils which are best adapted for its growth are rich in humus. Swamp lands or slough lands and muck soils which can be drained so as not to be too wet are best for this crop, though it may be successfully grown on clay soils which do not get too dry.

Clay soils are not good for millet because they lack in humus. The seed must not be sown before the ground has become warm, as they will either fail to germinate or will remain in the ground so long that the weeds get too great a start. If the land is rather thin more seed should be sown. It can be either broadcasted or drilled, but in rich land a smaller quantity of seed may be used, as the plants will till better.—Kansas Farmer.

OUR BEST APPLE TREE.

The Frazer of the Walla Walla Valley, Wash., is the World's Champion.

Experienced growers predict that the Frazer apple tree, growing in the Walla Walla valley, near Walla Walla, Wash., southwest of Spokane, will yield between 150 and 200 bushels of fruit this year, thus breaking its record of 126½ boxes in 1907, the highest production from a single tree known anywhere in the world. The tree bore seventy boxes in 1906, forty-two boxes in 1908 and forty-five boxes in 1909. More than 500 barrels of fruit have been picked from its limbs since it came into bearing in the spring of 1871.

The tree was grown without irrigation from a seedling planted by Capt. R. Frazer in 1868, two years after he settled in the valley. It is forty-two feet in height, and its branches spread fifty-seven feet from tip to tip.

The trunk is seven feet in circumference at the base and measures six feet six inches just below the first limb, which is four feet from the ground and measures four feet seven inches. The tree is sound and healthy despite the fact that it has produced fruit every season for nearly forty years.

Professor W. S. Thorner, horticulturist of the Washington State college; J. A. Balmer, former state horticultural commissioner of Washington, and R. A. Jones, a practical orchardist of Spokane county, described the tree as follows:

"The fruit is medium to large, roundish, oblate, irregular and slightly ribbed. The cavity is deep, broad, russeted and slightly wavy. The stem is short and heavy. The basin is narrow, abrupt, deep and wavy. The calyx is half open to closed.

"The color is yellowish green, faintly mottled with reddish purple in sunny side. Dots are large, irregular green and russeted. The flesh is yellowish white, mellow, juicy, coarse grained, of a mild subacid to sweet flavor and of fair quality.

"The cup is conical, stamens medium, core large, closed seeds, few dark brown and plump. The season is early to medium winter."

Mistakes With the Potato.

One reason why potatoes have degenerated in the past is that the potato growers of the United States have planted their cutts and screenings under the erroneous impression that such methods in seed selection would produce as good results as any other.—Farm Progress.

Nature's Hair Restorer

One Great Reason Why This Great Hair Beautifier and Color Restorer Produces Such Remarkable Results

Sulphur is a Natural Element of the Hair

When there is not a sufficient amount of sulphur in the hair, it loses its life, color and strength, turns gray, and falls out. There are many forms of sulphur, but only one kind that is suitable for treatment of the hair and scalp, and that is the kind used in preparing WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY.

We Have the Secret, and We Give You the Benefit of It at an Exceedingly Low Price

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin, until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is now fairly covered with hair, and it keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

HER BANK ACCOUNT

By J. ANTHONY TWINING

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

A man suffragette and a man anti-suffragette were discussing the question of votes for women. The suffragette led off by stating that women often owned property and were entitled to vote for those who made the laws affecting their interests. A widow, for instance, had not even a husband to represent her. A woman who might have more business ability than many men—

"What's that you say about a woman having business ability?" interrupted the anti.

"I said that a woman might"—

"Do you include my wife?"

"I haven't the pleasure of an acquaintance with your wife."

"If you had you would never have made that statement."

"Is your wife a poor business woman?"

"You just try her in a matter of banking."

"Not up to that, eh?"

"I should say not. When I married her she had some funds and insisted on managing them herself. I opened a bank account for her and tried to teach her how to keep it. She learned very quickly what the check book was for, but the pass book baffled her. I brought down her balances for her in the check book, so that she would know how much she had in bank."

"One day I handed her her pass book that had just been balanced at the bank. She looked at the figures and seemed very much pleased. Then she went off and looked at her check book balance. Soon after that she presented me with a fur lined coat as a surprise. It was not long before she received a notice from the bank that her account was overdrawn. She came to me to ask what it meant. I told her, and she left me with a puzzled look on her face."

"A few days later I received a polite note from the cashier asking me if I would kindly call at the bank. I did so, and he received me with a peculiar smile. Taking me into a private office where no one would hear, he told me that he had sent my wife notice that her account was overdrawn to the amount of $350. Then he showed me a note from her, in which she inclosed her check on his own bank for the amount to square the account."

"Your wife is not used to keeping a bank account, I take it," he remarked in kindly consideration of my feelings.

"Oh, yes, she is," I replied. "I've told her all about it."

"It can't be a mistake of ours."

"No; a mistake of mine. I should have told you that she can't learn just how the trick is done. I'll give you a check for her overdraft."

"I wrote him a check and that evening asked my wife how she expected to wipe out an overdraft in that way. She was very much surprised and disgruntled. I thought that I'd better look into her check and pass books, and what do you suppose I found? When a short time before I had handed her her newly balanced pass book she had noticed that the balance brought down was $350 to her credit. The balance I had brought down for her in her check book was $10. There were checks out not yet presented at the bank for $340. Being a mathematical prodigy, she figured that if she had $340 in the pass book and $10 in her check book she must have a balance of $350. She at once determined, in the generosity of her dear innocent heart, to spend it in a fur lined coat for me. I paid for the coat, and it furnished food for the moths."

"She was so disgruntled at her inability to manage her account that she said she would draw out all her money and give up banking. I asked her what money she referred to. She said that since I had paid the overdraft there must be several hundred dollars to her credit. Rather than try to explain to her that the account had been closed I deposited $400 in bank, and she drew a check for it, and in this way the matter was settled."

"Well, there was no more trouble after this till one day I left her to go on a business trip. In my check book I left a check payable to her order for a blank amount duly signed, so that if she needed money she could fill in the amount she required and get it at the bank. During my absence she ran short of money. A bill for perfume came in for $625. She filled in this amount, drew the money and paid the bill."

"The next day she needed more money. She submitted the case to a friend, who advised her to write a check for all the funds she would need till my return, take it to the bank, and they, knowing she was my wife, would probably cash it. Instead of taking it there herself she sent it."

"Well, she got the money. But when I came back, happening in at the bank one day, the cashier greeted me with another grin, this time more idiotic than before, handing me at the same time the check my wife had drawn, to which she had signed my name."

"Great heavens! It was a forgery. I couldn't have written my name any better myself."

"I took the thing home and showed it to her."

"Why, I supposed," she said, "I should sign your name as nearly as you sign it as possible."

"No, sir; women are no good for keeping bank accounts."

As a result of a recent order issued by the secretary of the Interior there have been withdrawn from entry in Wyoming, Utah and Idaho 2,000,000 acres of land which are underlain with phosphate. He has also recommended to congress that a law be passed which will permit the mining of this rock phosphate, but only on the condition that none of it be exported. Secretary Ballinger is to be commended for this action. Inasmuch as half of the phosphate mined in this country last year was exported, here would seem to be a phase of the conservation of resources movement that congressmen might well give their aid to.

Breeders of Jersey cattle seem to be dividing into two camps over the question of the type of cow which shall be accepted as a standard by growers of this breed of dairy cattle. Some, the minority, contend that the show ring type—the smaller inland type—shall be adopted as the standard. More hold that the larger American type of cow with the big barrel and udder, the one which makes the best showing in pail and churn, shall be the model to copy after. Since dairymen keep cows for the money rather than the pleasure there is in the business the latter type of cow would seem to be the one which will ultimately prevail.

Tested and Proven

There is a Hoop of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well Earned Reputation.

For months Gettysburg readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. Not another remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit.

Mrs. Charles Kennel, 401 S. Washington St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "I publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills two years ago and I have not changed my opinion of them. I still consider this remedy the best one on the market for kidney trouble. A member of my family suffered from rheumatism and kidney complaint and was subject to acute attacks of backache. There was a stiffness and lameness across the loins, especially noticeable in the morning and a tired, languid feeling was in evidence. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at the People's Drug Store, brought the first relief that had ever been received and when they have been taken since then, benefit has always followed. It gives me great pleasure to tell of the merits of this remedy."

"TWENTY-FIVE TO THE HILL."

Aim of a Colorado Potato Grower Who Advocates Seed Selection.

Of all the factors in potato growing selection of seed is by far the most important. Some twelve years ago a farmer, E. H. Grubb of Carbondale, Colo., undertook to improve and develop a potato along the same lines that he follows in improving his Shropshire sheep and Shorthorn cattle, using the best method of selection and giving the seed plot the best possible cultivation and irrigation in order to obtain uniformity of product. Since that time he has been selecting seed potatoes of the size and type which he wants to produce. As a twelve ounce potato is about ideal in size, seed potatoes of that size were selected from the bin in the spring, and then four or five acres were planted in a special plot for seed to be used for the main crop the following year. This plan was followed for twelve years with a potato (the Perfect Penchlow) which, it was said, would degenerate and ultimately run out, but that potato continued to improve during all that time.

Three years ago Professor E. R. Bennett, a specialist in potato work from the east, came to the state agricultural college. He became interested in the work Mr. Grubb was doing and freely complimented him on his success in potato production, but he wanted to take up and further improve the stock. Out of specially selected seed he selected perfect tubers and planted them in a field by themselves, and when the potatoes were ready to harvest all of them were dug by hand and the product of each hill kept separate. All hills that did not have twenty tubers of uniform size without knot, crack or rough end were discarded. No hill was selected unless it came within these requirements, and surprisingly few hills were found which passed muster. Enough were selected, however, to make about 200 pounds, and these were planted the following spring. When harvested it was a most marvelous row of potatoes. By pursuing this method it is hoped soon to have a potato that will make twenty-five perfect tubers to the hill.

In selecting potatoes in the field considerable dependence can be placed on the appearance of the tops. A large perfect top, with several stems of good shape and size, can be depended upon to have more tubers under it and of more uniform quality and size than a hill with a single stalk or one with small, weak stems.

PRODUCT OF A SINGLE HILL. (Showing uniformity of size and shape resulting from selection of seed.)

One of the essential and most important factors for success in this industry is the selection of perfect seed stock from the hill in much the same way as seed corn is selected in the field from the best individual stalks.

There is no other way to get true breed characteristics in potatoes except by selecting seed from the perfect hill.

Few of nature's agencies prove unmixed blessings. Thus the bee, everywhere recognized as a most valuable aid in the cross fertilization of many kinds of fruits, is the chief distributor of the germs of the blight which has wrought havoc with apple and pear orchards in many sections of the country, getting hold of the germs from hold over cases of blight from old oozy infections in the orchard or in nearby hawthorn or service berry shrubs.
